Warranty

All new aftermarket parts are covered by a 12 month supplier warranty unless stated otherwise. This is a parts warranty only and does not cover any other costs. The failed part will have to be inspected and depending on the part, this may mean sending it back to the supplier for testing. If the part is found to be at fault, a replacement will be supplied but the warranty period does not change from the original date of purchase.

Aftermarket parts supplied by us and fitted by our workshops are covered by the above. The failed part will be replaced and can be fitted by us at our expense providing the supplier of the part verifies the fault and agrees the exchange. We will not pay for this work to be carried out elsewhere but this can be done at the customers expense.

Genuine Land Rover parts are subject to Land Rover Terms & Conditions.

Common causes for parts warranty claims being rejected are; lack of servicing, incorrect oils, incorrect fitting, overheating, misuse and overloading.

No parts are covered by any warranty if the vehicle is used for competition, racing, rallying or operated outside of normal use.
